EARLY CHRISTMAS PRESENT IS GRAND BOOST FOR SCOUTS

Report by Henry James

Mystery benefactor makes £1,000 donation after Champion article

MEMBERS of a long-established local Scout group are celebrating an early Christmas present in the shape of a £1,000 donation - thanks to an appeal in the Champion!

The 17th Ormskirk (1st Skelmersdale Methodist) Scout group, which is believed to be the oldest youth group in the town and celebrated its 80th anniversary in April, had appealed for community support after their base at Barnes Road was broken into causing damage estimated to have run into hundreds of pounds.

Members were already reeling after being informed that they would have to vacate their headquarters by February next year as Lancashire County Council, which owns the building, want to demolish it for an access road to a new housing estate.

Now though things are looking up after the 'mystery' benefactor came forward with the £1,000 donation after reading the appeal for help in the Champ.

Lesley Cavaghan from the group said: "As a result of the Champion article I received a phone call from one of your readers who told me he wanted to make a donation to the group but did not wish to give his name. He described himself as being an ex-service man now retired.

"I should like to thank this gentleman on behalf of the children/young people and leaders for his very generous donation of £1,000 and wish him a healthy and happy 2019.

"The donation will go towards buying canoes for the group and so many young people will get use of them in future years."

The group is also benefiting from the Co-op Local Community Fund Scheme until October 2019.

Under the scheme Co-op members who live within a 15-mile radius of the club can raise funds for the group by swiping their membership cards when they shop at the local store.

Members who want to register their support for the scouts can do so at the Co-op's website www.membership.co-op.co.uk/causes

Money raised by the appeal will pay for new specially-adapted plastic canoes for the group.

A Christmas card could make all the difference for a care home resident.

Care home's cards for residents plea

STAFF at a Skelmersdale care home are appealing to members of the local community to spare a thought for some of its elderly residents when writing their Christmas cards this year.

Adrienne Ratcliffe, manager of the Aaron Crest Care Home in Tanhouse Road, says the festive season can be a particularly lonely time for those with no family and friends to celebrate with.

So she is asking people to consider adding an extra card to their list.

She said: "Our staff do everything they can to make this a special time of year for residents, while providing the care they need. But a simple Christmas card to our residents can help make their Christmas that much more special.

"Many of our residents don't have family and friends anymore and a card will make all the difference.

"We'd like to receive as many cards as possible to show our residents they are not forgotten this Christmas and are still part of the wider community."

Anyone interested in sending a Christmas card should address it to: The Residents, Aaron Crest Care Home, Tanhouse Road, Skelmersdale, Lancashire, WN8 6AZ.

Labour trio say people power is key to possible Skem Town Council

Report by Henry James

Skelmersdale county councillors John Fillis, Julie Gibson and Terry Aldridge say they would support a bid to establish a town council if that's what the people want.

THE Labour group on Lancashire County Council have agreed to support a bid to establish a Skelmersdale Town Council - if that's what the people want.

Establishing a town council would mean a third tier of local goverment, alongside the county council and West Lancs Borough Council.

In order to set up a town or parish council, a petition containing the signatures of at least 7.5% of the local population needs to be submitted to the local authority.

If the petition is deemed valid, the authority, West Lancs Borough Council, will carry out a 'community governance review' to see if a local council should be created.

The idea of a Skelmersdale Town Council has been resurrected by the town's three county councillors - John Fillis (Skelmersdale East), Julie Gibson (Skelmersdale West) and Terry Aldridge (Skelmersdale Central) - after talks with a number of local residents.

County Councillor Fillis said: "It's important that people decide if they wish to have a Skelmersdale Town Council once they have all the facts without the fiction.

"There are many town and parish councils in Lancashire that do an excellent job. However, concerns have been raised by local people regarding the impact some town and parish councils have and the subsequent cost.

"Although the question of a Skelmersdale Town Council has been raised before, it's important that to debate it again if people wish to consider it.

"But this debate must be open and honest so that people can make an informed choice.

"Lancashire Labour is here to listen and support the wishes of the people of Skelmersdale."

However, Cllr. Fillis stressed: "It's important that local people know what a town council entails regarding democratic structures, service provision and how much this will all cost on top of the current combined council taxes.

"Town councils do cost local people more money and their precept is not a replacement for existing council tax costs. The town council precept, unlike the other authorities, is not capped by Government and as such the town council can set its own tax."

If established Skelmersdale Town Council would work alongside existing bodies such as Lancashire Police Commissioner and Lancashire Fire Authority but would have no control over services such as the police, education, fire, or health.

The legislation to establish a town council is laid down by Government and not other local authorities, although they do have a part to play in the process.

Town councils can develop an extensive range of discretionary powers and can provide and maintain a variety of important and visible local services. These include allotments, burial grounds, bus shelters, car parks, commons and open spaces, community transport schemes, community safety and crime reduction measures, events and festivals, footpaths, leisure and sports facilities, litter bins, public toilets, street cleaning and lighting, tourism activities, traffic-calming measures, village greens and youth projects.

Unemployed man stole booze to feed and clothe baby daughter, court told

A SKELMERSDALE man caught stealing bottles of whiskey from a supermarket was selling the items to buy food and clothes for his year-old daughter because he didn't have a job, his solicitor told a court.

Artur Leimanis, 30, of Ivydale, Birch Green, pleaded guilty to two offences of theft when he appeared at Sefton Magistrates Court on Wednesday, December 12.

Alison Clarkson, prosecuting, said the defendant had stolen two bottles of Jack Daniels, worth a total of £64, from the Tesco store at Kew on October 17. Although he was spotted by security staff and chased, he managed to get away, she said.

However, Leimanis was caught when he returned to the same store five days later to steal two more bottles of Jack Daniels.

"It was just after 1pm and he was recognised by security staff," Mrs Clarkson said, "They watched him on the store CCTV. He had a pair of pliers with him which he used to remove the tags and he then concealed the bottles down his trousers. He walked out of the store without making any attempt to pay for the items and was detained."

Although he had a conviction from 2008 "for something in Latvia", the prosecutor said that as he only had a caution for shoplifting from 2014 police could have dealt differently with the matter had he not used the pliers.

"Obviously, taking the pliers shows that it was premeditated which prevented it being dealt with by any other way," she said.

Solicitor Darren Jones, representing Leimanis, said: "It is extremely unfortunate that this matter could not have been dealt with by means of an adult caution in the police station. I asked him why he committed this offence and he tells me that he has a long-term partner and a one-year-old child. None were working at the time so items were taken to be sold to provide food and clothing for his baby daughter.

"He had been seeking work but was not able to obtain work at the time. Thankfully, he is now due to start work as a delivery driver and has an interview for a job in Warrington."

The magistrates fined him £200 and ordered that he pay £115 in costs and victim surcharge along with £64 in compensation to Tesco.

Care home staff on uni course

FOUR members of staff at a Skelmersdale care home have signed up for a university course aimed at enhancing their nursing qualifications.

The quartet - Marie Stitt, Jess Mooney, Stephanie Williams and Tayla Neeley - all currently team leaders at Birch Green Care Home, have enrolled on the Assistant Practitioner Apprenticeship at the University of Central Lancashire (UCLan).

The programme equips trainee assistant practitioners with the skills and underpinning knowledge to support registered nurses.

CCTV operation 'vital tool' in keeping community safe

WEST Lancs Council chiefs say the authority and its partners are working hard to ensure residents are safe in the run-up to Christmas.

The council's CCTV system watches over the borough and provides reassurance to the community, as well as a valuable crime-fighting tool for the police.

The cameras are monitored 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, and operators are providing valuable assistance in preventing and solving crime.

In 2017/18 the CCTV unit was involved in 5,633 incidents. In addition to the 236 arrests that the CCTV operators assisted with, a number of the incidents also resulted in the police or PCSOs being able to intervene at an early stage to prevent trouble from escalating into something more serious.

Between November 2017 and November 2018, the operators played a key role in increasing road safety by either supporting the police or directly observing 101 incidents involving suspected drunk drivers. The operators also monitor suspected drug use and made 110 reports of possible drug-related incidents during the same period resulting in 74 arrests.

Operators keep in close contact with local businesses and the police through the Shopwatch radio scheme, meaning officers can be alerted and respond to any incident as quickly as possible.

Councillor Kevin Wright, the council's cabinet member for health and community safety, said: "Crime is low in West Lancashire and we want to keep it that way. Our CCTV system provides excellent value for money in playing a significant role in helping to achieve that.

"With Christmas around the corner we want people to feel safe when they are shopping or enjoying an evening out. I am particularly pleased to see the role that CCTV plays in relation to drunk drivers. Driving under the influence of alcohol is a crime and is extremely dangerous. "

Heidi McDougall, West Lancashire Community Safety Partnership chairperson, added: "The council's CCTV system is a powerful tool that will assist in not only preventing crime but enable the skilled operators to identify the small minority who are intent on committing crime or anti-social behaviour.

"We be working over the festive period to ensure that people feel safe."

There are currently 106 public open space cameras across the borough, including various key locations.

Men-Aces do their bit for the needy at Christmas

THE Skem Men-Aces disability football team rounded off a hectic few weeks with their final event for the year aimed at putting smiles on faces and having a bit of festive fun while recognising the plight of the elderly, lonely and homeless within the community.

They staged their annual Christmas appeal in the form of Santa Scores, where Santas, elves and the odd snowman had a football match, and instead of the usual money contributions, the lads were asked to obtain food.

The donatons were then put into hampers and taken around to Digmoor Community Centre which is opening up on Christmas Day to give a Christmas meal to those in need.

Carl and Mim Eaton from the Skem Men-Aces said: "All of the Men-Aces would like to thank all their supporters who have supported them over the year and to wish everyone a safe, fantastic Christmas."

Some of the people who took part in the special festive funday event organised by the Skem Men-Aces in aid of Digmoor Community Centre's Christmas Day meal for the community's needy, lonely and homeless.

Talkzone support service for young people available over Christmas and New Year

LANCASHIRE County Council's Talkzone service offering help and advice for young people, will once again be in operation throughout the Christmas and New Year period.

Talkzone offers guidance, support and information by phone, email, text, Facebook, Twitter and webtalk and is aimed at young people between the ages of 12 and 19 or up to 25 for those with special educational needs or a disability.

Provided by the county council's Children and Family Wellbeing Service, it is available between 2 and 10pm, every day of the year, including Christmas Day.

Susie Charles, Lancashire's cabinet member for Children, Young People and Schools, said: "This time of year can be as stressful and challenging for young people as it can be for adults. They can feel as if all their friends are having a good time, while they might be at home with their worries.

"The good news is that you're not alone. Talkzone is staffed by sympathetic workers who are experienced in dealing with a wide range of issues affecting young people. They've probably dealt with every problem and question under the sun at some stage.

"If you're a young person and need to discuss anything, you can ring, text or email and one of our advisers will be there to help."

Since it was set up 24 years ago, Talkzone advisors have responded to thousands of enquiries from young people on a huge range of issues.

Talkzone manager, Gaja Gannon, added: "We have qualified and experienced staff on hand who are used to dealing with anything and everything that young people call about.

"As well as relationship issues, Talkzone also helps young people who find themselves homeless at Christmas, need contraceptive, drugs and alcohol advice; or who need information about finding a job. No matter how big or small the issue is, Talkzone is available to help all young people in Lancashire."

The service will be open from 2 to 10pm throughout the Christmas and New Year period. Young people can ring on 0800 511111, text on 07786 511111, email talkzone@lancashire.gov.uk or make contact via facebook.com/LancashireYZ.

Increase in number of small operators advertising on social media triggers council warning

RESIDENTS in West Lancs planning Christmas parties are being advised to make sure any treats and other food they buy is purchased from a business registered to sell such goods - even if it is a small operation they may have seen on social media.

The advice, issued by the borough council, has been prompted by an increase in the number of small food operators advertising their services on sites such as Facebook and other social media, a number of which are selling Christmas cakes and other festive party food.

Councillor Kevin Wright, West Lancs Council's cabinet member for health and community safety, said: "Any person or business that sells food to the public on a regular basis must be registered with the council, even if they are an individual making food in their kitchen at home to sell.

"This is to make sure they are complying with food hygiene regulations and, where appropriate, given a food hygiene rating.

"Whilst we would advise residents to check if any food business is registered for their own peace of mind, we want to support legitimate local business and I would strongly recommend anyone thinking of operating a food business to contact the council's Food Safety team for advice."

People can check if a business is registered and inspected by visiting the Food Standards Agency National Food Hygiene Ratings website at www.food.gov.uk/ratings.

Anyone selling food to the public should register with the council 28 days before they open for business. More information, can be found at www.west-lancs.gov.uk/foodsafety.

County council chiefs urged to 'come clean' on proposed cuts to school bus services

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE County Council's Labour group are calling on council chiefs to 'come clean' on budget proposals to cut school buses.

They say the Conservative administration is proposing to save £100,000 but without identifying which bus services will be cut.

Labour councillors believe the proposal is likely to have the greatest impact on children living in rural and low population areas where travelling numbers are low. And they say that the removal of school buses will add to the closure of shops, post offices and services that are already undermining close community structures, leaving people with a greater sense of isolation.

County Councillor Erica Lewis

County Councillor Erica Lewis, Labour's highways and transport shadow, said: "In order to identify the budget saving they must know the school bus services they want to cut. Parents need to plan how their children will be getting to school next September.

"With no alternative transport parents will have to make some very serious decisions, which could affect the whole family and their futures."

Leader of the council, County Councillor Geoff Driver responded: "Of course we will be contacting the families concerned because we recognise the impact this proposal will have on them.

"Interestingly, County Councillor Lewis offers no alternative way out of the financial mess her Labour colleagues left us and I await with interest to see their budget proposals in February next year."

Council leader's Christmas message

THE leader of West Lancashire Borough Council has thanked council staff and voluntary workers in his seasonal address, and while acknowledging the financial challenges ahead in 2019, he says the future is "very bright" for the borough.

After wishing residents a "very happy Christmas and a peaceful New Year", Councillor Ian Moran said: "As Christmas is almost upon us I would ask people in West Lancashire to remember that while this is a joyful time for many, we should all spare a thought for those who may need a helping hand over the festive period.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank council staff for their hard work over the last 12 months. Our employees are among our greatest assets and they deserve praise for the commitment they show to working for the people of West Lancashire.

"I would also like to praise the work of people in voluntary sector organisations who give up their time to help others in the local community, some of whom can be very vulnerable.

"The authority adopted a new Council Plan earlier this year and this exciting document proves there are exciting times ahead for the whole borough.

"The council is ambitious to ensure the conditions are in place for the people of West Lancashire to live healthy and fulfilling lives. Our Health and Wellbeing Strategy has been officially launched and staff involved in the strategy are working with partners to tackle the health inequalities that exist across the borough.

Councillor Ian Moran.

"Another important initiative showing the council's ambitions around health is our proposal to have new health and well-being centres in Ormskirk and Skelmersdale. We are hoping to go out to consultation on this early in the new year.

"West Lancashire Borough Council is ambitious for the economy. Progress is being made on the exciting project to create a new Skelmersdale town centre. The council is working well with St Modwen and Homes England on this hugely important regeneration project which will benefit not only the people of Skelmersdale, but the whole of West Lancashire. We are looking forward to building work starting on site in 2019.

"The council is also working with businesses and communities across the borough to promote and enhance West Lancashire, including through the Ormskirk Town Centre Management Group, the Skelmersdale Place Board and the Skelmersdale Ambassadors. More than 100 businesses have attended ambassadors events.

"As well as the new town centre project for Skelmersdale the council is leading a fabulous scheme on Skelmersdale's green oasis, Tawd Valley Park, which shows one of the authority's other key priorities which is to be ambitious for the environment. A number of partners are involved in this scheme, including Groundwork and West Lancs CVS, and work is progressing on the Masterplan, with a community orchard being planted and excavation works starting on the new fishing pond.

"In 2019 the council will face financial challenges, like many other local authorities across the UK. The council manages its budgets effectively to ensure the authority provides excellent value for money, and in previous years we have made savings while minimising any effects on services, but now these options are more difficult to find.

"But overall the future looks very bright right across the borough. The council will continue to be ambitious for the borough, ambitious for its people, businesses and places and continue to strive towards achieving the goals in the Council Plan as it aims to make West Lancashire an even better place to live, work and do business."

Laura's ready to party after being crowned Miss Slinky

SUPER slimmer Laura Farmer has an added reason to celebrate this Christmas.

The 34-year-old from Skelmersdale has been voted Miss Slinky by fellow members of her Slimming World group after shedding an incredible seven stone to achieve her target weight.

Miss Slinky is an annual competition recognising those members who have transformed both inside and out, becoming healthier and happier and more confident of looking and feeling great in their Christmas party clothes.

Laura before and after losing the weight

Laura, who has dropped from a dress size 22 to a size 12, said: "I was already really looking forward to this Christmas and feeling confident enough to wear outfits that I couldn't or wouldn't have last year. Winning the Miss Slinky title means I have even more to celebrate and I know this festive season will be extra special!"

Laura began following Slimming World's Food Optimising healthy eating plan, which encourages members to satisfy their appetite on healthy foods like pasta, rice, potatoes, lean meat, fish, fruit and veg and more.

A spokesperson for Slimming World said: "Christmas is a time of year for getting dressed up and having a good time. However a lot of members have said they'd often dread it because they felt uncomfortable and out of place at parties, which is just so sad.

"This year though Laura will feel completely different from previous years and hopefully she will be accepting every invitation she receives and showing off her fabulous new zest for life!"

Pub's community lunch goes down a treat

A VILLAGE pub's free community Christmas lunch offer for pensioners and people living on their own was a resounding success.

More than 30 people from all around the West Lancs area enjoyed the festive feast at the Red Lion in Newburgh, tucking into tomato soup, roast turkey and Christmas pudding.

And the over-60s who attended were also given a present and a Christmas card.

Chris Scott, general manager at the Red Lion, said: "It went very well. We have had extremely good feedback, with people saying how good it was. This was the first time that we had done this and the idea was to give something back to the community. The initiative came from Marston's brewery's head office and they supplied the food.

"Thanks also to Spinney Care Home for donating money towards a minibus to pick everyone up and to Yvonne, Nicola, Amy and Katrina who were waitresses and Bill, the chef.

"The staff were only too pleased to help the local community and it was a really good day. We are looking at doing another one next year."

Be prepared if illness strikes

Report by Kenny Parker

HEALTH chiefs at the NHS West Lancs Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) are urging residents in the borough to be prepared should they or a loved one become unwell in the holiday season.

Residents are reminded that their local pharmacy can offer free, confidential and expert advice on a range of health issues. They can also help you to self-care and prepare for many common winter illnesses and offer advice on which medicines to keep in stock at home.

Pharmacies open over the festive season are as follows:

Christmas Day: (all 10am to 1pm) Rowlands, Tarleton; Ormskirk Medical Practice Pharmacy; O'Brien's Pharmacy, Burscough; and Rowlands, Skelmersdale.

Boxing Day: Rowlands, Tarleton (10 am to 1pm); O'Brien's Pharmacy, Burscough (10am to 1pm); Rowlands, Ormskirk (10am to 1pm); Asda Pharmacy, Skelmersdale (9am to 6pm); Morrisons Pharmacy, Ormskirk (10am to 4pm); and Boots, Ormskirk (11am to 4pm).

New Year's Day: O'Brien's Pharmacy, Burscough(10am to 1pm); Trust Pharmacy, Hesketh Bank (10am to 1pm); Rufford Pharmacy, Rufford(10am to 1pm); Asda Pharmacy, Skelmersdale (10am to 5pm); and Morrisons Pharmacy, Ormskirk (10am to 4pm).

You can also find a wealth of trusted advice about hundreds of health conditions and details of GPs, pharmacies in your local area by visiting www.nhs.uk. This useful website also includes a handy symptom checker.

If you need medical help or advice fast, but it is not a 999 emergency, you can also call the NHS 111 service. This is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year and calls are free from mobiles and landlines.

You can also access NHS 111 online, by visiting www.111.nhs.uk.

Your GP should be your first point of contact for non-emergency illnesses you can't treat yourself. A GP will be available from 8am to 6.30pm weekdays (local GP practice times may vary).

In West Lancashire, patients can also now access a GP in the evening and at the weekend, seven days a week, including all bank holidays (except Christmas Day).

Dr John Caine, chair of NHS West Lancashire CC.

The service is offered from Sandy Lane Health Centre in Skelmersdale; Ormskirk Medical Centre and Burscough Health Centre,

Availability is limited on Boxing Day to the Sandy Lane Health Centre between 10am and 4pm and on New Year's Day to the Ormskirk Medical Centre between 10am and 2pm. There is no service available on Christmas Day.

West Lancashire has two walk-in centres where staff can treat minor injuries and minor ailments - the West Lancashire Urgent Care Centre, based at Ormskirk Hospital, Wigan Road, and the Skelmersdale Walk-in Centre at The Concourse.

Both centres are open seven days a week, from 8am to 8pm including over the holiday period except for Christmas Day when the Ormskirk centre is open from 9am to 5pm and the Skelmersdale centre from 10am to 2pm.

For emergency dental treatment when your dentist is closed, call 0300 1234 010.

Dr John Caine, a GP in West Lancashire and chair of NHS West Lancashire CCG, said: "During the winter months and especially over the festive period, it is really important we all know where to go if we, or a loved one falls ill.

"If you have a repeat prescription ensure that you don't leave it too late to get the medicine you need. And remember that for anything non-urgent, such as minor illnesses like coughs and colds, scrapes or sprains you can visit your local pharmacist in the first instance, who will be able to assist.

"It's important that we keep GP appointments free for more urgent medical needs."

Police commissioner's concerns over funding

£6.8m grant boost 'welcome' but not enough to offset pensions deficit and Government accused of 'passing burden to Council Taxpayers - again'!

Report by Henry James

LANCASHIRE'S Police and Crime Commissioner, Clive Grunshaw, has expressed concern that the Government has "once again passed the burden" of the cost of policing onto Council Taxpayers, following the proposals announced in the House of Commons.

Policing Minister Nick Hurd revealed the latest financial settlement for police and crime commissioners across the country, with next year's Central Grant funding allocation to Lancashire increasing by £6.8m.

But while Mr Grunshaw welcomed any additional grant, he said it didn't even cover the increase to employer pension contributions for policing, announced in September.

The consequences of dealing with this pensions deficit is forecast to cost Lancashire Constabulary around £7.1m per year from 2019/20 - the equivalent of more than 150 police officers.

The Government also announced greater flexibility for increasing the Council Tax precept which contributes to police funding, up to £24 a year on a Band D equivalent property.

Clive Grunshaw.

The minister recognised that the police service had met every requirement set in the 2018/19 settlement to secure the funding arrangement made for 2019/20, including £120m of savings nationally.

Failed

Mr Grunshaw said: "Through this announcement the Government has once again failed to provide additional money towards front-line policing, with any additional money from central government covering the costs of the unfunded increase in police pensions, which undermined all previous planned budget assumptions.

"Once again the Government has passed the buck on to Council Tax payers and failed to address the concerns raised up and down the country that after eight years of budget cuts, removing £84m - equivalent to more than 25% of the budget in 2010/11 - from policing in Lancashire with a further £18m still to find over the next few years.

"The ability to invest in our policing teams and meet the pressures on the service is completely reliant on raising Council Tax by the highest amount we can.

"The Government know this and once again are failing to be honest with the public, failing to address the actual cause which is years of austerity in policing.

"This announcement, whilst on the face of it a step in the right direction, doesn't come close to addressing the issues faced by Lancashire Police after cutting too far and too fast for the last seven years."

Civic visitor gets an insight into town's hectic Christmas mail operation

THE Deputy Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Gaynar Owen visited the Skelmersdale Royal Mail delivery office to see first-hand the hectic Christmas post operation and to pass on season's greetings to dedicated, hard-working staff.

Cllr. Owen was given a guided tour and introduced to some of the postmen and women who are pulling out all the stops to sort and deliver mail in the town over the very busy festive period.

Christmas is Royal Mail's busiest time as millions of people shop online for gifts as well as sending cards and parcels. Royal Mail also plays a key role in e-commerce for many businesses sending goods to customers throughout Christmas shopping season.

Deputy Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Gaynar Owen, with staff during her visit to the Skelmersdale delivery office.

Dedication

Cllr. Owen said: "At no other time is the hard work and dedication of postmen and women clearer than during the festive period. There is a huge amount of effort and dedication that goes into delivering a first-class Christmas all over the country.

"It was great to meet the team here at Skelmersdale and thank them for the extraordinary lengths they go to ensure Christmas parcels and cards are delivered to loved ones on time, as well as thanking them for delivering our mail all through the year, in all weathers."

Royal Mail delivery office manager, Stephen Britton, commented: "Our postmen and women are working extremely hard to deliver Christmas parcels, cards, letters and parcels to people in Skelmersdale and we are grateful that the deputy mayor visited the office to see our operation and support the team.

"We'd like to remind our customers to post early and to ensure all their mail is posted by the recommended dates, so that friends and family can enjoy their Christmas greetings and parcels.

"If everyone uses the postcode on every item of mail, this also helps us greatly in the job that we do at this very busy time."

Here at Motion Graphix supporting local businesses is very important to us!

It was our pleasure this party season to work on THE SANTA BUS and we hope it helps to make your families Christmas just that little bit brighter. The Santa Bus will be making its way through town, stopping at various destinations and offering children the chance to play, meet Santa and receive a special gift. For destination times and dates please see the PARADISE PREMIER PARTIES Facebook page.

So from all at Motion Graphix HQ and the Paradise Parties' team we would like to wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Spreading the Makaton message

Nursing student uses signing skills to help improve lives of people in local community with learning disabilities

A DEDICATED nursing student has used the skills she has learned on her degree course at Edge Hill University to improve life in her local community for those with learning disabilities or sensory issues.

Laura Flanagan from Skelmersdale has learned Makaton sign language which she put to use in her part-time job in a shop, as well as using her knowledge to make the shopping environment more relaxed for customers who suffer with sensory issues. Makaton uses signs, symbols and speech to help people communicate.

The 20-year-old said: "I had a discussion with a customer who was asking about my course and she said that she had never encountered a shop worker who spoke to her daughter who has a learning disability and profound autism spectrum disorder (ASD), and who communicates through Makaton and facial expressions.

"I spoke to my manager about printing off a crib sheet that showed staff how to sign welcome greetings. I then used it when talking to shoppers with hearing impairments and they reacted positively, thanking me for using signs rather than purely speech.

Laura Flanagan

"I also explained how larger supermarkets have a 'quiet hour' within the shop and how this would benefit shoppers with sensory disorders, or who have children who are hypersensitive.

"We trialled the idea on a Saturday between 9 and 10am by turning lights off and putting on relaxation music, as usually the only noise that could be heard was buzzing from the freezers and fridges, and the feedback we received was positive."

Laura uses Makaton signing to converse with residents at a local care home. But although the use of Makaton continues to grow, she feels more can be done to change perceptions about its everyday use.

"There is a need for exposure in other areas aside from children's TV channels such as CBeebies, as this has added to the suggestion that people with learning disabilities are 'eternal children'," said Laura.

"I enjoyed watching Dr Ranj Singh on Strictly Come Dancing recently, as each week he would teach his dance partner a sign which they would do before performing. I found this a great way to broadcast Makaton on a media platform and hope more public figures will begin signing."

Laura is also keen to encourage others to follow her career path and visited her former college to talk about her own application experience and offer support to students looking to pursue a similar route.

"I delivered a presentation about the application process, and the realities of university life. I also provided a contact for local students going through UCAS clearing, who could contact me if they wanted to talk to someone who had been in a similar situation."

During her time at Edge Hill Laura was awarded student learning disability nurse of the year for her cohort. She was also selected for a Chancellor's scholarship in 2018, being awarded £2,000 towards her studies.

Villagers' parking issue resolved

OUR West Lancashire say residents of a village in the borough are benefiting from extra parking spaces after ward councillors helped to persuade the council to take action.

Limited parking spaces for neighbours in bungalows in Holly Close, Westhead previously resulted in on-street parking, compromising access for emergency vehicles and council bin wagons.

After residents first raised the issue with OWL Councillor Adrian Owens, he took the matter up with council officers and the authority has now constructed 10 additional parking spaces, resolving the access and parking problems.

Cllr. Owens said "I'd like to thank the council's portfolio holder for housing and landlord services, Councillor Jenny Forshaw, for her support. She immediately understood the problem and took the project forward."

Fellow OWL Councillor Ian Davis, who lives in the village, added: "This makes the everyday task of using the car much less stressful and hazardous for everyone living in that part of Holly Close."

£12m-plus annual cost of unnecessary ambulance call-outs

Report by Henry James

MORE than £1million of taxpayers' money is wasted EVERY MONTH on false or pointless calls to the North West Ambulance Service (NWAS).

According to the latest figures released by the charity, there are more than 1,180 ambulance responses to locations where no patients are found each month, costing the NHS more than £170,000.

And a further 6,200-plus responses are made to people who refuse care and treatment from paramedics when they arrive on the scene, costing a whopping £900,000 a month.

The North West Ambulance Service's 999 calls are all handled across three centres, with calls from Sefton and West Lancashire are all processed in these offices. With every single call-out costing £145, the total cost of wasted ambulance journeys to the region's ambulance service, and the public purse is more than , £12.8 million a year.

This staggering sum could pay for any of the following vital items of equipment - 92 brand new, fully-kitted emergency ambulances; salaries and staffing costs for 286 paramedics or 390 emergency medical technicians; 1,071 monitoring devices for heart rate, blood pressure, oxygen levels and to defibrillate patients in cardiac arrest; 2,571,024 blankets to keep patients warm; 1,071 ambulance stretchers!

Ged Blezard.

The charity has published the figures as part of its Make the Right Call campaign, which urges the public to choose the right NHS service to get the most appropriate care and ensure ambulances only go to people who really need them.

Ged Blezard, director of operations at NWAS, said: "The cost of wasted journeys is significant, but so is the amount of time that we spend looking for people who we think need our help when we could actually be helping someone else.

"There are many reasons why people may not be there when our crews arrive; sometimes they decide to go to hospital with a family member, or get treatment elsewhere, but don't let us know. This could be down to unrealistic expectations of how quickly ambulances respond, or because we are simply that busy that they, unfortunately, have to wait longer for a response than we would like.

"It is really important that if people no longer need us they call 999 to cancel so that we can get to the next patient quickly and don't waste time trying to find people who don't need or want our help.

"Winter is always the busiest time of year for the ambulance service. 999 calls increase as the weather gets colder and party season is underway. It's even more important at this time of year that you help us to help you.

"We want people to do the right thing first which will get them the best care; this means calling 999 when someone is seriously ill or injured and their life is at risk. For urgent medical advice when it's not an emergency they can get advice at 111.nhs.uk. Call 999 to cancel an ambulance if it's no longer needed."

Have a WILD WINTER at Martin Mere Wetland Centre

At Martin Mere Wetland Centre we're here for you and for wildlife 364 days a year, so don't let a little thing like the weather put you off spending a day in the great outdoors. This Christmas holiday, throw on a coat, grab your wellies and head out for a wild winter adventure – we're open every day apart from Christmas Day!

Wetlands are incredible spaces teeming with wildlife all year round. Visit us this season and you'll be amazed to discover that while a lot of animals do leave or nod off in the colder months, there's still a lot that's wide awake. Seasonal wildlife spectaculars include flocks of pink footed geese, lapwing and teal on our Mere and colourful woodland birds gathering at our Kingfisher and Ron Barker Hides. Learn more about the current highlights from our Guide in the Discovery Hide - every day between 12-3pm.

The colder months are also the perfect time of year to see the Icelandic whooper swans which migrate to Martin Mere every winter. To celebrate these beautiful swans coming to visit, we've got a number of swan-themed activities at the centre, including our swan pipe experience, daily swan feeds and a swan-themed discovery trail.

On the collection side of the centre we have a number of iconic wetland species including our cheeky Asian short-clawed otter family. Discover more about them during daily talks at 11.30am and 2.30pm and find out how WWT is working to save them and other wetland species. When you visit, you can hand-feed our characterful ducks, geese and swans or take a wintry walk amid stunning scenery.

And once your wildlife-watching is done, there's tasty fare aplenty in our cafe, with festive treats, winter warmers and a new breakfast menu. Our site has excellent access and full visitor centre facilities including a well-stocked gift shop – ideal for those with wildlife fans to buy for this Christmas!

Farmers warned about risks and consequences of pollution incidents

AN agricultural insurance expert is warning farmers about the risks of pollution, after official figures revealed 42 incidents occurred in the North West in the past decade.

Environmental Agency statistics obtained through a Freedom of Information request showed that almost one in ten waste and water pollution incidents in England took place in the region over a 10-year period.

Farm pollution incidents can have a devastating impact on wildlife, ecosystems and, in some cases, human health - silage effluent, for example, can be more than 200 times more toxic than untreated sewage if it finds its way into waterways.

Mick Hodgson, an account executive with Farmers & Mercantile insurance brokers, said he fears too many farmers are not aware of just how destructive farm pollution can be to the environment, or the severe penalties they face if prosecuted.

He said: "What many farmers don't realise is that the latest sentencing guidelines mean they could be slapped with unlimited fines, or up to five years in prison, if found responsible for a pollution breach," he said.

"Couple this with the fact that the Environment Agency is pushing for farmers who damage the environment to lose their government grants and you have a situation which many farmers simply could not recover from.

Mick Hodgson.

"In summary, farmers' businesses are being put in serious jeopardy because of carelessness. This is not a risk any farmer should be willing to take."

Hodgson warned that, whilst insurance may cover the cost of any clean-ups, it is not available to cover the cost of substantial fines imposed when farmers don't comply with the law.

"Agriculture remains one of the biggest sources of pollution incidents, with the Environment Agency branding it 'a slow-motion environmental catastrophe'," he said.

"This is unsurprising, considering farmers are responsible for three-quarters of the land in England, but much can be done to mitigate the risks.

"First of all, farmers should ensure their knowledge of environmental legislation is up-to-date and that they closely follow guidance from the Environmental Agency.

"Risk assessments should be conducted, such as identifying low-lying areas and waterways vulnerable to effluent run-off, and checks should be routinely carried out, from ensuring silage clamps and slurry containers are sound and secure to examining nearby waterways for signs of pollution.

"Adverse weather should be also taken into account, as heavy rainfall can increase the chance of toxic run-off. Contingency plans should be put in place, in preparation for every eventuality, and all workers should be made aware of these.

"If there is a pollution incident, suspected or confirmed, the Environmental Agency should be contacted immediately, followed by the farmer's insurance company. It is worth bearing in mind that, as part of its crackdown on offenders, the agency is calling for incentives to be introduced for farmers who maintain a good environmental track record. So, prevention not only provides peace of mind but may in the future reap benefits, if the Environment Agency realises its objectives to protect the environment for future generations."

Surely I can't be the only one who likes Brussels sprouts?

IT has only just dawned on me that this will be my last Dog before Christmas so can I take this opportunity of wishing all of you who read this column regularly a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

And I'll refrain from commenting on Brexit (though it does seem crazy to me that so many folk still want us to remain in an officious and bullying organisation which won't let you get out of it in any sensible manner). But enough of that.

I have always enjoyed Christmas. As a child my late brother George and I woke on Christmas morning to find Santa had delivered a pillowcase each, filled with goodies and perhaps a small gift. We had to wait until after Christmas lunch for our 'big' presents under the tree - but it was worth it - the delicious aroma of goose roasting in the oven and Christmas pud steaming made the morning of anticipation.

We looked forward to filling our small tums with overly-large portions of goose, mash and roast potatoes, Brussels sprouts et al., and of course the steaming pud with a white sauce which was a bit of a mystery as to exactly what it was.

The amazing thing was that by teatime we were again capable of eating various cold meats and salad, and the mandatory cream cakes before the highlight of mum opening what she called 'The Little House'. This was actually a model village store, called Bunny's if I remember rightly, complete with cotton wool snow, which housed small gifts for everyone.

At the time I was glad that our Christmas was purely a family affair, but of course the problem with that is that the 'family' decreases through anno domini year on year. And that too was OK so long as both our parents were alive. After they had gone, George and I continued with most of the traditions - minus the pillowcases and the Little House (which eventually fell to bits).

For the past five years though it has been just Tina, Cinders and me - and the dogs have a lamentably small regard for traditions. Christmas for them means food, food and more food.

Still, I continue with having a small Christmas tree and we have our Christmas lunch and tea sitting at (or under) a dining table under candlelight and a 'real' fire. And I persist in a new tradition (introduced after my dad died) of having a good-quality roasted duck in lieu of the goose for lunch on Christmas Day, and turkey in some form or other on Boxing Day. In the family Christmas past that meant a proper, whole turkey, but now such a thing would be a gastronomic impossibility.

As an aside, why is it that sprouts are such a national joke? This seemingly unloved vegetable is surely the best thing to come out of Brussels, certainly in recent years. And if they are indeed such an awful thing, how come they are available in supermarkets more or less all year? They wouldn't be there if it was only me buying the things.

At the moment I just do not feel 'Christmassy.' Hopefully when I get my tree up and working, this will change. I suppose that now that I and the dogs are home alone, Christmas for me has ceased totally to be about what presents I may get, and the number of people I want to buy presents for is pitiably low.

Which should mean that I think about what is termed 'the true meaning of Christmas' more than I did in the past. I reckon that the true meaning is 'Hope' and I suppose that as I get older it becomes rather more urgent that the things I hope for should come to pass sooner rather than later.

So, I really do hope that the things you wish for come true - starting with a truly wonderful Christmas Day.

Leaving was never going to be easy but EU have a lot to lose too

THIS country belongs to us all right now but only a few get to vote on a massive deal change. I'm most infuriated to hear why I voted and how I got it all wrong.

I certainly knew when I voted that Europe would not make leaving easy (about the only truth they forgot to lie about!) but the EU have a lot to lose too (no deal is the best leverage we have to get a deal).

The Conservatives insulted Labour saying their idea of leaving wasn't 'leaving' but now we are told Labour's deal would be too good to be true.

The public and even most politicians didn't negotiate or hear of the deal done until the last minute. Then we have to pay for it, have no right to free trade, laws and power within EU, or the ability to leave unless we are allowed by 27 countries.

I don't blame Mrs May for not achieving the unachievable. I blame her for putting ten times the homeless people on our streets, allowing working families to need foodbanks, single parents to only see their kids when they are asleep, allowing tax loopholes for the elite whilst draining money from our schools and our emergency services and putting the NHS at breaking point.

I doubt she ever stood a chance of getting a good EU deal but running down the wrong route and refusing to turn back is not a strength or loyalty just a delay and pressure.

For a long time I have said it's a crime to democracy to have another people's vote but the next step is important to us all. Is it No Deal or go back?

Personally I say take the risk. There is a 'soft' border between Spain and Gibraltar. The EU want freedom of movement for their people so may allow it to us.

After the short-term risk we could make our own laws and money speaks when it comes to trading deals in the EU and elsewhere. We may even become increasingly self-sufficient.

Others may have good arguments and I'm willing to listen and go with the democratic vote.

I admit I would like to hear a debate between Corbyn and Mrs May with no personal insults or party politics, just respect and honest explanations. Could that be achieving the unachievable?

Let's hope by next week some answers/actions are made and Brexit has moved on and my letter is last week's news.

It could be that now we know Theresa May was so clever as to plan her strategy from the beginning. She gave us a unity no other deal could, 'leavers' and 'remainer's all united.

Who thought a deal could do that?

Janet Ingman, by email.

New local plan shows no thought for infrastructure or residents of borough

RE: The letter by Councillor Gail Hodson ('Forward-thinking plan will bring jobs and investment' - Letters, December 12).

How hypocritical of a councillor who doesn't live in any of the areas affected by the new local plan to write such a letter.

It is definitely a case of 'it isn't on my doorstep so go ahead as it won't affect me'.

I wonder how you would feel about the plan if the Labour plan was to build on countryside where you live?

Extensive research? I think not. Nothing in the new plan has been researched.

Infrastructure hasn't been thought through. Student numbers have decreased and yet a 1,000-bed student accommodation is in the plan, once again using our Green Belt.

If this was required, which it isn't, it should be built on a brownfield site outside of Ormskirk.

Sefton do not require our land, their plan has covered their needs.

I am not sure what the Labour Party are thinking. They certainly aren't working for the good of West Lancashire residents.

S.W. by email.

Asbestos 'concerns' have got me worried

THE concerns about asbestos in Eskdale (Champion, December 12) have me worried.

I bought my maisonette 16 years ago and, shortly after, asked the council's housing department whether asbestos had been used in constructing the buildings on the estate.

The council officer assured me very firmly that there had not.

Did she lie to me?

I have since done a lot of DIY work to refurbish my home and do not like the thought that I may have been putting myself at risk on the basis of false information.

A friend of my mother's recently died of asbestosis. It was a grim experience.

Marie Curie Support Line is available over Christmas period

NO matter the time of year, spending time with your family and loved ones is always important - even more so over the Christmas period.

This year, more than one million people in the UK are expected to be supporting a loved one who has a terminal illness, during what could be their last Christmas together.

Caring for a loved one can be a rewarding experience but many of your readers will also feel overwhelmed and isolated. They may also be facing the challenge of trying to make Christmas a magical, happy time for young children while also providing care for their husband, wife, mother or father.

That's why we want people to know that the Marie Curie support line is available for families who don't know where to turn and need extra support this Christmas.

Marie Curie's helpline provides free and confidential emotional support about any aspect of terminal illness, as well as offering help with bereavement.

If your readers are in need of support then Marie Curie is here for them. Please let them know they can contact us, for free, on 0800 090 2309.

Support Line open hours are: December 22 and 23 (11am to 5pm); December 24 (10am to 4pm); December 25 and 26 (10am to 2pm); December 27 and 28 (8am to 6pm); December 29 and 30 (11am to 5pm); December 31 (10am to 4pm); and January 1 (10am to 2pm).

Additionally, our trained Support Line Officers are also on hand via our online chat service at mariecurie.org.uk/support.

Morven Masterton, head of information and support, Marie Curie.

Festive season tips for asthma sufferers

CHRISTMAS should be a time of good Cheer, relaxation and celebration, but for many people with asthma, the festive season can be a testing time.

New analysis from Asthma UK shows that an estimated 300,000 people have had an asthma attack over the Christmas period.

Festive triggers, including Christmas trees, yuletide stress, party foods such as pigs in blankets and festive tipples, could be to blame for some people.

People with asthma have sensitive airways. When they come into contact with triggers such as stress, sulphites found in wine and processed meat such as pigs in blankets, and mould found on Christmas trees, it causes their airways to become more inflamed and tighter, causing coughing, wheezing and leaving them struggling to breathe.

Winter can be a particularly problematic time for people with asthma as colds and flu and cold air are also top asthma triggers. That's why at Asthma UK, we are offering simple hints and tips so the 5.4 million with asthma can stay well and enjoy the Christmas season. If you have asthma we advise you to:

- Take your preventer inhaler (usually brown) as prescribed. This builds up protection over time and means you're less likely to have an asthma attack if you come into contact with a trigger.
- Carry your reliever inhaler (usually blue) at all times.
- Watch out for danger signs and get urgent medical help if your asthma is getting worse such as needing to use your blue reliever inhaler three or more times each week

We hope that following these tips and getting more information at www.asthma.org.uk/winter-triggers will ensure everyone with asthma can stay well and enjoy the festive season.

Dr Andy Whittamore,
Clinical Lead, Asthma UK.

Please show some respect for all our hard-working shop staff at this busy time

I WOULD like to wish your readers a very merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

For many this is always an exciting time, but we know it can be frantic trying to get everything ready for the big day.

I want to gently remind your readers to remember that shopworkers are people as well.

They will be working really hard to make your shopping experience as stress-free and enjoyable as possible.

A recent Union of Shop, Distributive and Allied Workers (Usdaw) survey shows that every minute of every day another shopworker is verbally abused, threatened with violence or physically attacked.

Shopworkers tell us that incidents are more frequent throughout the Christmas and New Year period when shops are busier, customers can be stressed and are more likely to take out their frustration on staff.

Talking to our members who work in retail, I know that verbal abuse cuts deep. Many will go home after a shift upset about an unpleasant incident that took place at work that day and worried that it will happen to them again.

That is why Usdaw is running a Respect for Shopworkers campaign, asking customers to 'Keep your Cool at Christmas'.

It's a simple message, but remembering that shopworkers are working extra hard at this time and treating them with respect will mean that everyone can have a happier Christmas.

Paddy Lillis,
General Secretary, Usdaw.

MP backs charity's campaign for electric checks for over-65s

Report by Kenny Parker

ROSIE Cooper is backing a campaign calling on people to check the electrical safety of older family members or neighbours,

The Safer Over 65 campaign is led by charity Electrical Safety First which has developed a range of tools and guides to help keep older people safe at home.

The charity says that with more than half of all domestic fires arising from electricity - and older people being disproportionately affected - this is the time of year we particularly need to keep an eye on older friends and relatives.

West Lancs MP Ms Cooper said: "Many older people worry about winter heating bills, often using portable heaters and electric blankets to cut costs, but these appliances are the cause of a number of house fires, mainly through misuse.

"And with most older people being owner-occupiers, they tend to live in homes which haven't had an electrical safety check for many years and often lack important electrical safety features. Today, we are sadly also seeing a significant increase in age-related illnesses such as dementia, making electrical safety even more of an imperative."

Rosie Cooper and TV chef Rosemary Shrager supporting the Safer Over 65 campaign.

Electrical Safety First says that most electrical fires are caused by simple mistakes that can easily be avoided. The charity's top tips for using portable heaters safely are as follows:

- Place the heater on a level surface, well away from anything that could knock it over.
- Make sure the heater is at least a metre away from combustible materials, such as paper, furniture or curtains. Never use it to dry clothes!
- Never leave a heater unattended when in use, or while sleeping.
- Never power a heater from an extension lead – they can easily be overloaded and cause fires and trailing leads can cause slips and trips.
- Make sure heaters are regularly inspected for damage and deterioration. If it isn't in good condition, don't use it!
- Avoid second-hand heaters - buy from recognised and reputable manufacturers and retailers.

For more detailed help, including an app which allows you to do a rapid visual electrical safety check of a home, plus a range of safety guides, visit www.electricalsafetyfirst.org.uk/olderpeople.

Stormy weather can't dampen spirits at business centre Christmas lights switch-on STORMY weather didn't deter management and staff at the Martland Mill business centre, Burscough when they held their annual Christmas lights switch-on.

Members of the local community were invited along to share mince pies, sparkling wine and chocolates and a good time was had by all - despite the inclement weather.

Sue Smith, lead receptionist at the Mart Lane centre, which is home to independent businesses, said: "Despite torrential rain and high winds everybody had a fabulous time. It was a great atmosphere and a brilliant start to the Christmas Festivities."

The lights were switched on by the centre's two newest tenants - web designer Rich Flynn of Blue Digital and Tracey Goodwin of Tracey Goodwin Counselling Services.

All welcome to church's carols by candlelight service

THE annual carol service at Christ Church, Parbold, featuring community and congregational choirs, will take place on Sunday, December 23 starting at 6pm.

A spokesperson for the church said: "Join us in our beautiful candlelit church to enjoy a traditional service of lessons and carols. This is a part community choir and part congregational service that will last about an hour and everyone is most welcome."

Tribute to Queen of Soul

A NEW concert show, Respect to Aretha is coming to The Atkinson on Thursday, January 31 at 8pm.

Life-long Aretha Franklin fan and power-house vocalist, Letitia George stars in this dedication to the Queen of Soul.

Aretha Franklin's extraordinary career as a singer and songwriter spanned more than 60 years. She rose from church gospel singer to international stardom at a young age and is widely seen as the finest female soul singer of our time. Her talent has always been unequalled.

Massive hits including: A Natural Woman, Say A Little Prayer, Chain Of Fools, Until You Come Back To Me, Think, I Never Love A Man, and of course Respect, will ensure that Aretha's legacy will continue forever.

Life-long Aretha Franklin fan and power-house vocalist, Letitia George, rose to fame after featuring on series 4 of BBC 1's The Voice UK, where she became a member of Team Ricky and soared her way through to the knockout rounds.

Panto 'rattles along at a quick pace and offers plenty to keep families entertained'

Review by Henry James

A scene from Beauty and the Beast

SAM Kane and Imagine Theatre are back at Southport Theatre to present this year's panto – Beauty and the Beast.

This is the second successive year for Sam Kane in the venue's festive show. Jason Marc-Williams as Dame Kimmy Shoo and Alistair Barron (Selfie Simon) are both back for a third year. Toni Howard played Cinderella in 2017 and is also back this year as Belle.

The fact these performers have appeared together before shows as this is a tight production, which rattles along at a quick pace.

The show has all the elements you would expect from a pantomime and they include: the ghost scene; a kitchen scene where the Dame and Selfie Simon find themselves covered in soapsuds; and younger members of the audience performing on stage.

It is surprising to see Kane playing the bad character Eugene, but after watching his performance, I think he is obviously enjoying the part.

Joshua Prince plays the Beast/Prince and his costume and his movements as the Beast are impressive. Expect to see a clever special effect toward the end of the show. I won't say anymore, but I could hear some youngsters near me asking their parents, "how do they do that?"

Wordplay and puns normally play a huge part of panto, and this is shown in this production. The jokes are mainly aimed at the younger audience. Younger members of the audience are called on to stage to perform a tongue twister as well. On the night I went, one of the kids nearly stole the show!

There are some good musical numbers too and the young and old ensemble move well to the music.

There is plenty here to keep families entertained during the festive period. 8/10

Show is a 'very funny night out'

Review by Pete Rimmer

A WALK from the station passing the Liverpool Christmas markets and the shops full of Festive Spirit has to put you in the mood for a retelling of A Christmas Carol being performed at the Liverpool Playhouse.

Production company Spymonkey are the ones to add a new twist to a very old story, most readers will be aware of the plot of Scrooge being visited by many ghosts to help turn his rather miserable life into one of joy.

It's of course been on TV, film, radio and many times on stage so how do you put a new slant on a very old story?

Well first you bring on the author Charles Dickens, played by the extremely funny Aitor Basauri setting the scene with a touch of magic and comedy.

So the show begins as expected in Scrooge's office with only three other actors, Toby Park, Petra Massey and Sophie Russell all playing what seems dozens of parts each, with changes of scene, costume and character done at breakneck speed.

Without giving too much away the sight of seeing the ghost of Christmas Present, in a green robe and gliding into the room on a hover board has to be just one of the highlights of the superb show.

With plenty of up to date jokes and banter it's very silly but great fun with everything from Mr Fezziwig being played as Cuban drug lord to the bazaar sight of Torvill and Dean's Bolero performed with only one dancer and a vacuum cleaner!

A scene from A Christmas Carol. Photograph by Johan Persson

All the actors sing well and the combined combination of vaudeville, slapstick comedy, musical numbers and Ross Hughes leading an exceptional onstage band make this a very funny night out.

Well worth a visit, it's on till January 12.

Jeep has taken on two performance classics with its range-topping Grand Cherokee Trackhawk

'All I Want for Christmas is You' could finally snatch its first UK number one...

AS YOU read this week's Champion two classic festive hits are thundering their way up the charts. With a bit of momentum behind them either Wham!'s lovable Yuletide ballad, Last Christmas, or Mariah Carey's All I Want for Christmas Is You could finally snatch a UK number one – but I'd understand if Ariana Grande holds the top spot for yet another week.

Sorry for going all Top of the Pops on you, but at least you'll understand if something released two or three decades ago doesn't quite match the performance of something that's brand new. It's just a shame that Jeep, if its latest publicity stunt is anything to go by, clearly doesn't.

It lined its Grand Cherokee Trackhawk – an off-roader packing a 710bhp, 6.2-litre V8 – up against a TVR Griffith and an Audi quattro in a quarter-mile drag and then stood back, trying not to look surprised, when the monster-engined SUV won. That's right – a sports car introduced in the early Nineties and a coupe so old that Gene Hunt used one in Ashes to Ashes went up against a brand-new car with an enormous supercharged engine, and lost.

All of which is about as useful as sticking The Shard next to Liverpool Cathedral and declaring the showroom-fresh skyscraper as the tallest or pointing out that a shiny new iPhone can run rings around a Nokia 3210. Jeep freely admits it's all a bit of Top Trumps-inspired fun, of course, but I suspect the real reason why it wasn't put next to something a bit newer is because it would've been humiliated.

Had Jeep been able to haul out a can of whup-ass on something from the class of 2018 - an Audi RS6 Avant Performance, for instance – then I suspect the petrolheads in every pub from Crossens to Crosby would've sat up and taken notice. That was what made the original Range Rover Overfinch such a big hit – not only could it outrun a contemporary Golf GTI up the straights, but Mr Hot Hatch wouldn't have been able to shake him off in the corners, either. There is something very lovable about big, chunky off-roaders being made to do daft things – and no, the new Cupra Ateca and Skoda Kodiaq vRS don't count.

I like the vaguely bonkers premise of the Grand Cherokee Trackhawk – if not the £89,995 price tag – but what this test doesn't tell you is what it'll be like on a greasy British B-road. Which is where a proper performance car, like the quattro and Griffith are, really comes to life.

I can't tell you who'll bag this year's Christmas number one but I can reveal, in news that'll shock precisely no one, is that a 710bhp Jeep costing nearly ninety grand will outdrag a 30-year-old Audi away from the lights. Who knew?

Van Veen hopes to be back soon after injury caused match to be abandoned

Report by Simon Driscoll

Skelmersdale United 1
Kendal Town 1
(match abandoned after 80 mins)

AFTER torrid weather conditions saw a half-time abandonment last week at Colne, Skem's match on Saturday against Kendal Town was also halted - this time due to a serious head injury to forward Oliver Van Veen.

The game was called to an end in the 80th minute when Van Veen suffered a head injury in the centre circle.

The delay proved to be a lengthy one with the injury requiring the attendance of the emergency services and as a result the match was abandoned.

Van Veen was taken to hospital but discharged later in the evening

Speaking on social media on Sunday; "Bit of a scare yesterday but glad it was nothing serious.

"Big thank you to all the staff at Skelmersdale United and the supporters that helped out.

"Looking forward to getting back out there."

The visitors had taken a 20th minute lead through Bradley Carroll before United defender John Keatley levelled on 74 minutes.

Skem manager Paul McNally welcomed Terry Smith and Will Dunne back into the starting lineup after recent unavailability while Ronan Darcy was included on the bench after joining on work-experience from Bolton Wanderers.

Kendal opened the scoring on 20 minutes as Jacob Davis collected a through pass and advanced on goal, he squared the ball for Carroll who slotted past Terry Smith for 1-0.

The visitors could have doubled the lead as a clever run from Mark Buchan saw him pick out Brown who drew a stunning fingertip save from Smith from close range.

Brown drew a low stop from Smith a few minutes later before Dunne forced a similar stop from Stuart Dixon at the other end as did Dave Moore from a central position.

Kendal had a chance to double their advantage on 35 minutes with Brown collecting a through pass to advance on goal before being denied one-on-one by Smith.

United's Sean Yeldrem hit a low shot across the goalframe just before half-time.

Buchan swept a free kick over the target early in the second half ahead of a lofted cross from Louis Keegan finding the head of substitute Van Veen who headed narrowly over the bar from close range.

United levelled the game on 74 minutes as a free-kick from Dunne cannoned off the wall into the path of John Keatley who slotted past Dixon for 1-1.

Kendal came close to restoring the lead within a minute of the restart as Carroll curled an effort towards goal which saw an acrobatic stop from Smith.

Marvin Molyneux fired an effort over the bar before the match was halted around the 80 minute mark due to the injury to Van Veen.

All and then nothing in festive fixture lists

IT is a case of all and then nothing for the two local clubs over Christmas this year, as Skelmersdale United are away to Leek Town on Saturday while Burscough travel a similar route to visit Winsford United.

Boxing Day sees both sides at home with 3pm kick offs, Skem entertain their landlords Prescot Cables at Volair Park and Burscough entertain Litherland Remyca.

Then both teams are without a game on Saturday, December 29 and Burscough don't play again until Saturday, January 5 and Skem bring in the New Year with an away encounter at league leaders Runcorn Linnets.

Skelmersdale will be hoping for a better day on Saturday than they had on the first day of the season back in August when they lost 4-0 to Leek.

Leek are seventh in the Evo-Stik Division One West table and have a decent home record, winning five out of eight games at Harrison Park.

But Skelmersdale do look a lot better since Paul McNally took over the reins at Skem and further improvement is expected from them.

Bizarrely Skelmersdale have had both their last two games abandoned when they have been drawing.

Burscough have moved up to sixth place in the North-West Counties Premier division table, their highest position since they moved into the league two years ago.

This year Winsford are struggling in the table but perhaps more significant is the fact that they have recently moved up the table with five wins out of their last six games, so Burscough's good away record will be tested to breaking point down in Cheshire.

It will be strange day for Skem on Boxing Day, almost like playing a home game away, as there are expected to be more Prescot supporters at the game than Skelmersdale followers.

Prescot are managed by former long time Skelmersdale assistant manager Brian Richardson and have a couple of former Skem players in their squad, not least top marksman Chris Almond.

Burscough will be playing a first ever league game against Litherland Remyca, but not their first game.

The team from up Dunningsbridge Road prevailed when the two met in the Liverpool Senior Cup last season when they were led by now Skem manager Paul McNally. It should be a typical local derby game.

Five star Linnets go sixth in table

Burscough 5
Abbey Hey 0

BURSCOUGH refused to let the wind and rain hamper their style of play at Victoria Park on Saturday as after playing against all the elements they were 4-0 up at the interval, writes Neil Leatherbarrow

In the end a brace each from Chad Whyte and Connor Finlayson saw them comfortably home 5-0.

The victory lifts Burscough up into sixth place in the North-West Counties Premier Division table.

Their run of injuries continued before the kick off as midfielder Danny Green was helped off the field before they had even started the game.

But the Linnets shook off the disappointment to take the lead after five minutes when new signing Connor Finlayson was clumsily fouled in the area and strike partner Chad Whyte fired home from the penalty spot.

On an impressive debut, Finlayson was the instigator for Burscough's second goal on 16 minutes.

His header was going in but was parried by Abbey goalkeeper Ross Heywood the ball running to Whyte who gratefully bagged his 22nd goal of the season.

Burscough were in control now but the visitors continued to play positive football and on a couple of occasions they threatened to break through the Burscough backline with defence splitting passes.

In the next ten minutes the highly energetic Jordan Lorde brought a good save out of Heywood then after a foul on him by Lewis Haydock Jamie Clark put a left-footed free-kick marginally wide.

Burscough back playing in their customary green shirts made the game almost secure on 34 minutes and this time it was Whyte's turn to be the creator, turning and running at the Abbey Hey defence he skilfully released Will Doherty with an excellently weighted ball, as keeper Heywood came off his line Doherty coolly slotted the ball past him into the net to make it 3-0.

If there was any doubt about the game being all over there was none at all five minutes before the end of the half, Finlayson was put free into a one on one situation with Hey keeper Ross Heywood and rolled the ball past him.

It really was a hardworking powerful performance from Burscough.

Abbey Hey may be struggling in the league but they still play football the right way but they were simply outplayed by Burscough.

Those that were expecting a deluge of goals in the second-half from Burscough with the wind now at their backs had to be satisfied by the first-half show.

Burscough never looked in any danger and considering the horrendous weather conditions they had to accept a deluge of rain instead, but Burscough still did well.

There was a fifth goal to come though, in the 56th minute Finlayson firing a shot across keeper Heywood into the far corner.

One big plus point for Burscough supporters was the appearance as substitute of Alex Parkes, he has been out with a hamstring injury since August and his guile all around the park has been missed, although he played a cameo role on the day, he did set up Doherty for an effort that was saved by Heywood, but more importantly it was a big step back towards his full fitness.

Jordan Lorde was arguably the best player for Burscough on the day, he is developing well and his work rate was tremendous, he deserves credit for it.
